

Daniele Ronchetti

Scientist for Data Analysis

✉ Email   in LinkedIn   🐙 GitHub

About me

I am a results-driven individual with a passion for computational problem-solving and software development. With expertise in Python, MATLAB, and  $\text{\LaTeX}$ , I bring technical precision to every project. My collaborative approach and dedication make me an effective team player and a reliable leader in cross-functional environments.

Personal Information

Daniele Ronchetti
Nationality: Italian
Born: 6 Sept. 1996 in Lecco, IT
🏠 Schreinerweg 36, 22549 Hamburg, DE
☎ +39 339 8544355
☎ +49 157 52474668

Programming and Tools

Python •  $\text{\LaTeX}$  • Agile Development

Figures

📊 70% proposals' acceptance rate (7/10)
⚡ Participation in 23 experiments (1 as main proposer) at XFEL facilities worldwide
🗣 7 talks at international conferences

Languages

|         |    |
|---------|----|
| Italian | C2 |
| English | C2 |
| Spanish | A2 |
| German  | A1 |

Publications

For a list of publication visit the page at Google Scholar.

EXPERIENCE

|              |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
|--------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 2026–present | Data ScientistEUROPEAN X-RAY FREE ELECTRON LASER · Schenefeld, DE 📍...                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| 2024–2024    | Internship TraineeSACLAL, RIKEN · Sayo, JP 📍 <ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>• Planning and performing experiments at X-ray Free Electron Lasers large scale facilities.</li><li>• Supporting external users.</li><li>• Development of a Python module for data analysis of large datasets.</li><li>• Development of Python scripts for control of experimental setups.</li></ul>                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |
| 2023–2026    | Tour GuideDESY · Hamburg, DE 📍Led technical and dissemination tours for non-expert audience.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
| 2021–2026    | PhD ResearcherFS-TUXS GROUP @DESY · Hamburg, DE 📍PhD project on controlling x-ray scattering properties via manipulation of transient electronic states. <ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>• Simulating x-ray scattering in out-of-equilibrium systems.</li><li>• Leading the design, planning, and execution of experimental campaigns at X-ray Free Electron Lasers.</li><li>• Specialization in non-linear and attosecond X-ray science.</li><li>• Development of Python codes for data analysis of large datasets.</li><li>• Supervision of 1 B.Sc. thesis project and 2 internship students.</li></ul> |
| 2023–2023    | Teaching AssistantUNIVERSITÄT HAMBURG · Hamburg, DE 📍Conducted exercise classes for the course of Physics IV (Solid State Physics).                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |

EDUCATION

|      |                                                                                                           |                                                                                     |
|------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 2026 | PhysicsDr. Rer. Nat.Universität Hamburg📍 Hamburg, DE                            |  |
| 2021 | Engineering PhysicsMaster of SciencePolitecnico di Milano📍 Milano, IT                  |  |
| 2019 | Engineering PhysicsErasmusNorges teknisknaturvitenskapelige universitet📍 Trondheim, NO |  |
| 2018 | Engineering PhysicsBachelor of SciencePolitecnico di Milano📍 Milano, IT                |  |

MAIN SKILLS

|                                   |                      |
|-----------------------------------|----------------------|
| Data Analysis              | ████████████████████ |
| XFELs' science             | ████████████████████ |
| Python                     | ████████████████████ |
| <math>\text{\LaTeX}</math> | ████████████████████ |

AWARDS

European XFEL 2025 Users' Meeting
UOEC PhD Posters Prize - 21.01.2025

PUBLICATIONS

For a list of publication visit the page at Google Scholar

"You play how you train"